The Fulbright Distinguished Awards in Teaching Program for International Teachers (Fulbright DAI) Program is a four and a half month non-degree, non-credit, intensive professional development program at a U.S. university. It will provide approximately 45 educators with a unique opportunity to complete individual or group projects, take courses for professional development at a host university, observe, collaborate and share their expertise with U.S. colleagues in public, private, secular, and religious schools. The Fulbright DAI Program will commence in August 2022 and conclude in December 2022. The curriculum includes academic coursework, leadership training, and instructional technology seminars. Through the program teachers build collaborative, lasting connections with teachers and students. inquiry project. Each participant also completes an inquiry project independently, or as part of a group to develop educational materials, workshops, or other resources to meet an educational need in their home community. Cultural enrichment, and support will be provided throughout the program.

After returning home, educators who successfully complete the program will be eligible to compete for small grants for essential teaching materials, follow-on training for other educators, collaborative projects with participating U.S. schools, and other activities that build on the exchange experience.
